My Story: From Crisis to Purpose

Where I'm From: The Region the World Forgot

I am from Southwest Cameroon—a region most people have never heard of, but one that has shaped every fiber of who I am.

Since 2016, Southwest Cameroon has been engulfed in an armed conflict known as the Anglophone Crisis. For eight years, my home has been a war zone:

- 6,000+ people killed

- 765,000+ displaced from their homes
- 200+ schools destroyed or shut down
- Entire towns abandoned, families torn apart, dreams deferred indefinitely

This is not a crisis that made international headlines. There are no UN peacekeepers, no celebrity fundraisers, no viral hashtags. We have been suffering in silence.

I grew up watching:

- My friends drop out of school because armed groups attacked their classrooms
- Talented young people waste away, their potential buried under fear and instability
- Families flee into the forest to hide from violence
- A generation of young people lose hope, believing their lives don't matter

For most of my peers, the crisis became their destiny.

But not for me. I got lucky.

The Privilege of Escape

Through a combination of determination, family sacrifice, and what I can only call divine intervention, I made it out.

I earned admission to Ashesi University—one of Africa's most prestigious institutions, known for producing ethical leaders and innovative thinkers.

At Ashesi, I experienced things my friends back home couldn't even imagine:

- World-class education in Computer Science, Design Thinking, Leadership
- Mentorship from successful entrepreneurs, professors, and alumni

- Access to opportunities: Scholarships, fellowships, internships, conferences
- A community that believed I could change the world
- Safety, stability, and hope

For the first time in my life, I could dream without fear. I could plan for the future. I could become who I was meant to be.

The Question That Haunts Me

But as I sat in Ashesi's beautiful campus, learning and growing, a question tormented me:

"Why me?"

- Why did I get to be here when my childhood best friend is still trapped in Buea, unable to attend university?
- Why am I learning grant writing while the brilliant young woman from my church is selling food on the roadside to survive?
- Why do I have access to global mentors while the talented young man from my neighborhood has never even been on LinkedIn?

The answer was unbearable: I'm not more deserving. I'm just luckier.

And I couldn't live with that.

The Decision That Changed My Life

In 2023, I made a choice:

If I can't bring every young Cameroonian to Ashesi, I will bring Ashesi to them.

I founded Rise for Impact—a pan-African youth leadership organization dedicated to democratizing access to the transformational experiences I had:

- World-class training in leadership, grant writing, storytelling, public speaking
- Mentorship from successful African leaders
- Networks that transcend borders and socioeconomic barriers
- Access to opportunities (scholarships, fellowships, grants)
- A community that believes "Never let your background put your back on the ground"

I couldn't save everyone. But I could create a system that would.

What I've Built: Rise for Impact

The Organization

Founded: 2023

Mission: Empowering young Africans to transform their backgrounds into foundations for impact

Reach: 8 countries (Ghana, Kenya, Nigeria, Rwanda, South Africa, Tanzania, Uganda, Zambia, Cameroon)

Impact to Date:

- 500+ young leaders trained
- 85% program completion rate (vs. 40-50% industry average)
- 50+ community projects launched by alumni
- 70%+ Fellows win scholarships/grants within 6 months
- 6 distinct programs serving diverse needs

Programs I've Designed & Facilitated

1. Rise for Impact Fellowship (Flagship Program)

- Year-long comprehensive leadership development
- On-site intensive conference + 6 months virtual mentorship

- Training: Grant writing, storytelling, public speaking, project management, opportunity navigation
- Outcome: 85% completion, 70%+ win opportunities

2. Impact Clinics

- Intensive 2-day project incubation workshops
- Helps young people turn ideas into fundable projects
- Participants leave with complete proposals

3. Rise Circles

- Peer accountability groups (6-10 people, 12 weeks)
- Goal-setting, mutual support, celebrating wins
- 90%+ achieve at least one major goal

4. Rise for Climate

- Youth-led environmental action program
- Climate advocacy training + project funding + network building

5. Campus Ambassadors

- University chapter establishment
- Student leaders run Rise for Impact programming on campuses

6. Opportunity Plug

- Weekly newsletter sharing curated opportunities (scholarships, fellowships, grants)
- 1,000+ subscribers

The Technology I Built

As a Computer Science major, I built Rise for Impact's full-stack web application from scratch:

Technology Stack:

- Frontend: Next.js 16, TypeScript, Tailwind CSS, Framer Motion
- Backend: Node.js, Next.js API Routes
- Database: PostgreSQL with Prisma ORM
- Authentication: NextAuth.js with JWT
- Email: Resend API for automated notifications
- Deployment: Vercel (production-ready, analytics enabled)

Features:

- Program management (applications, selections, tracking)
- Opportunity database (1,000+ opportunities catalogued)
- Automated email notifications (announcements, reminders, confirmations)
- Alumni network management (profiles, projects, success tracking)
- Blog & media hub (storytelling platform)
- Admin dashboard (real-time analytics, volunteer management, newsletter system)
- SEO optimization (auto-generated sitemap, robots.txt)
- Dark mode, global search (Cmd+K), social sharing

Why This Matters:

- Demonstrates technical excellence and entrepreneurship
 - Reduces operational costs (no expensive third-party tools)
 - Enables efficient scaling across 8 countries
 - Shows I can turn ideas into real, functional systems

My Leadership Philosophy

1. Lead from Where You Are

You don't need a title, budget, or permission to create change. I started Rise for Impact as a university student with no funding, no team, and no experience running an organization. I just started.

Leadership is about:

- Seeing a need and refusing to wait for someone else to fill it
- Using whatever resources you have (even if it's just your time and skills)
- Building as you go, learning from failure, iterating constantly

2. Your Story Is Your Strength

For years, I was ashamed of being from a "crisis region." I thought it made me less credible, less capable.

Then I realized: My background is my superpower.

- I understand the communities I serve because I'm from them
- I speak the language (literal and cultural) of the young people I empower
- I can authentically say, "I've been where you are—and here's how I got out"

Authenticity beats credentials every time.

3. Build Systems, Not Dependencies

Many organizations create dependency: "Come to us, we'll help you."

Rise for Impact creates agency: "Here are the tools, the network, the knowledge—now go build your future."

I teach Fellows:

- How to write their own grant proposals (not write them for them)
- How to build their own networks (not become dependent on mine)
- How to identify opportunities themselves (not wait for me to send them)

Empowerment > Charity.

4. Scale Through Community

I can't train 10,000 young Africans by myself. But:

- If I train 100 Fellows...
- And each of them mentors 10 people...
- And those 10 mentor 10 more...

That's exponential impact.

Rise for Impact's model is peer-to-peer, alumni-led, community-owned. I'm not the hero—the Fellows are.

5. Never Let Your Background Put Your Back on the Ground

This is our founding belief. It means:

- Your struggles are not weaknesses—they are proof of your resilience.
- Your lack of privilege is not a deficit—it's what makes you empathetic and grounded.
- Your story is not something to hide—it's your most powerful tool for connecting with others and creating change.

I don't lead despite being from a crisis region. I lead because of it.

Skills & Competencies

Leadership & Community Building

- Founded and scaled Rise for Impact from 0 to 500+ participants across 8 countries
- Recruited and managed 15+ regional coordinators
- Facilitated workshops for 500+ participants (virtual and in-person)
- Built a 50-person mentor network of African professionals

- Created sustainable systems for volunteer engagement and alumni management

Technical & Digital Skills

- Full-stack web development: Next.js, React, TypeScript, Node.js, PostgreSQL, Prisma
- System design & architecture: Built scalable production application from scratch
- DevOps: Deployment, CI/CD, database migrations, version control (Git)
- Data management: Database design, API development, analytics integration
- Product design: UX/UI design, responsive design, accessibility

Communication & Storytelling

- Public speaking: Presented at university events, community forums, online webinars
- Grant writing: Won funding from foundations and impact funds
- Storytelling: Crafted compelling narratives for fundraising, recruitment, marketing
- Writing: Authored blog posts, impact reports, program curricula, application templates
- Social media: Managed Rise for Impact's social media presence (15,000+ reach)

Program Design & Management

- Designed 6 programs from concept to implementation
- Curriculum development: Created training materials for grant writing, public speaking, project management, storytelling
- Monitoring & evaluation: Built frameworks to track participant outcomes, completion rates, impact metrics

- Budget management: Managed program budgets, tracked expenses, reported to funders
- Partnership building: Collaborated with universities, NGOs, and corporate partners

Problem-Solving & Innovation

- Identified gap (talented African youth lack access to leadership development) and built solution
 - Adapted to constraints: Designed virtual-first model to overcome cost and crisis barriers
 - Iterated based on feedback: Continuously improved programs based on participant input
 - Resourcefulness: Achieved significant impact with minimal funding through volunteer networks, technology, and creativity

Why I'm Applying for This Fellowship

1. I Want to Deepen My Skills

Rise for Impact has grown faster than I anticipated. I need to level up:

- Strategic leadership: How to scale sustainably to 10,000+ participants
- Fundraising: How to secure $100K+ grants and corporate partnerships
- Organizational management: How to build a full-time team and governance structure
- Impact measurement: How to rigorously measure and communicate long-term outcomes

This fellowship offers [insert specific skills/knowledge from fellowship program] that will directly strengthen Rise for Impact.

2. I Need a Network

I've built a network in West Africa, but I lack connections to:

- Global funders (foundations, impact investors, multilateral organizations)
- Policymakers who can help scale youth development initiatives
- Corporate leaders who can provide sponsorships, mentorship, or job opportunities for Fellows
- Peer social entrepreneurs solving similar problems across Africa and globally

This fellowship will connect me to [insert specific network benefits from fellowship] that will accelerate my work.

3. I Want to Learn from the Best

I've learned everything through trial and error. I need exposure to:

- Successful founders who've scaled social enterprises
- Experienced leaders who've navigated challenges I'm facing
- Experts in youth development, education, technology for good

This fellowship offers [insert specific mentorship/speakers from fellowship] who can guide me through the next phase.

4. I Want to Amplify My Impact

With the right support, Rise for Impact can:

- Train 10,000+ young Africans in the next 5 years
- Expand to 20 African countries
- Launch 1,000+ community projects
- Create a pan-African movement of empowered changemakers

This fellowship will give me the tools, network, and credibility to achieve this vision.

5. I Want to Give Back

Every opportunity I receive, I multiply:

- Ashesi gave me access to leadership training → I created Rise for Impact to share it with 500+ others
- A mentor taught me grant writing → I now teach it to hundreds of Fellows
- I won [insert scholarship/opportunity] → I use it to model what's possible for others

If I'm selected for this fellowship, I commit to:

- Mentoring at least 10 young African entrepreneurs/leaders
 - Sharing learnings through blogs, webinars, and presentations
 - Creating resources (templates, guides, toolkits) for other African founders
 - Paying it forward by supporting the next cohort of Fellows

What I'll Contribute to the Fellowship

1. A Unique Perspective

Most Fellows may come from privilege or have extensive organizational backing. I bring:

- Lived experience of crisis, poverty, and marginalization
- Grassroots credibility from building an organization with no initial funding or institutional support
- Technical skills that most social entrepreneurs lack
- Pan-African perspective from working across 8 countries

2. A Proven Track Record

I'm not coming with just ideas—I have results:

- 500+ lives transformed
- 85% program completion rate
- 70%+ Fellows winning opportunities
- Testimonials, case studies, and data to prove impact

3. A Commitment to Collaboration

I'm not interested in competition—I want to learn from and support other Fellows:

- Share resources, templates, tools I've built
- Offer technical help to Fellows building platforms
- Collaborate on joint projects where our work overlaps
- Celebrate wins and support each other through challenges

4. Humility & Hunger to Learn

I know I'm still early in my journey. I'm here to:

- Listen more than talk
- Ask questions shamelessly
- Admit what I don't know
- Absorb every lesson

I'm not here to prove I'm the smartest—I'm here to become the best leader I can be.

My Vision for the Future

Short-Term (1-2 Years)

- Graduate from Ashesi (2026) with distinction

- Scale Rise for Impact to 3 new countries (Senegal, Ethiopia, Zimbabwe)
- Train 1,000+ additional young leaders in 2026-2027
- Secure $100K+ in funding from foundations and corporate partners
- Launch mobile app for easier access to opportunities and community
- Host first-ever Pan-African Rise for Impact Summit (bringing together alumni from all 8+ countries)

Medium-Term (3-5 Years)

- Hire full-time team (3-5 people) to manage operations
- Establish Rise for Impact as a registered non-profit with formal governance
- Reach 10,000+ alumni across 20 African countries
- Launch earned revenue streams (corporate workshops, paid consulting) to achieve financial sustainability
- Win major awards (Echoing Green, Ashoka, Obama Foundation) to amplify credibility
- Publish impact research demonstrating ROI of grassroots youth development

Long-Term (10+ Years)

- Rise for Impact becomes Africa's #1 grassroots youth development organization
- 100,000+ alumni across all 54 African countries
- Self-sustaining model with diversified revenue (grants, corporate partnerships, alumni giving, earned income)
- Policy influence: Alumni in government shaping youth policy across Africa
- Generational impact: First-generation alumni now mentoring third-generation Fellows

- Case studies in universities and conferences: "How one student from a crisis region built a movement"

Personal Dreams

- Earn a Master's degree in Computer Science or Social Entrepreneurship (Stanford, MIT, Oxford)
 - Speak at major conferences (TED, Aspen Ideas Festival, World Economic Forum)
 - Write a book: "Never Let Your Background Put Your Back on the Ground: A Blueprint for Grassroots Impact"
 - Return to Southwest Cameroon when peace is restored and lead reconstruction efforts
 - Create lasting change so no young Cameroonian has to wonder "Why me?" ever again

Why I Will Succeed

1. I Have Proven I Can Build

Most people talk about solving problems. I've actually built solutions.

- Went from idea to 500+ participants in 2 years
- Built a full-stack technology platform from scratch
- Scaled across 8 countries with no budget
- Maintained 85% completion rates (double industry average)

I don't need permission or perfect conditions—I execute.

2. I Am Relentlessly Resourceful

- No funding? Built everything with volunteers
- No technology platform? Taught myself to code and built it
- No mentors? Found them on LinkedIn and cold-emailed until they said yes

- No connections? Created my own network from scratch

Constraints fuel my creativity, not limit it.

3. I Lead with Authenticity

I don't pretend to be perfect or have all the answers. I:

- Share my failures openly
- Ask for help when I need it
- Admit when I'm wrong
- Lead with vulnerability and humility

People trust me because I'm real, not polished.

4. I'm Obsessed with Impact

This isn't a resume-builder or a side project. This is my life's work.

I think about Rise for Impact 24/7. I dream about it. I sacrifice social life, sleep, and comfort for it.

I'm all in.

5. I Have a Community Behind Me

I'm not alone:

- 500+ alumni who believe in this mission
- 15+ coordinators ready to scale
- 50+ mentors volunteering their time
- Thousands of young Africans waiting for their turn

This isn't just my dream—it's our movement.

Closing: My Commitment

If you select me for this fellowship, I commit to:

During the Fellowship:

- Show up fully: Attend every session, complete every assignment, engage deeply
- Contribute generously: Share resources, support peers, add value to the community
- Apply learnings immediately: Test new strategies in Rise for Impact and report back
- Document journey: Blog, vlog, or journal to share lessons with others who can't attend

After the Fellowship:

- Multiply impact: Use what I learn to train 10X more young leaders
- Pay it forward: Mentor at least 10 emerging African social entrepreneurs
- Stay connected: Remain active in the alumni network, collaborate on projects
- Share resources: Publish templates, guides, toolkits for other founders
- Represent well: Be an ambassador who proves this investment was worth it

For the Rest of My Life:

- Never forget where I came from: Stay grounded, humble, connected to grassroots
 - Lift as I climb: Every door I walk through, I'll hold open for others
 - Lead with integrity: Make decisions that honor the trust placed in me
 - Prove that backgrounds don't determine destinies—they fuel them

A Personal Note to the Selection Committee

I know you'll receive applications from brilliant, accomplished, well-connected individuals.

I'm probably not the most polished applicant. I don't have famous mentors or prestigious previous fellowships. I don't come from wealth or elite networks.

But I have something rare:

- Authenticity: I'm from the communities I serve. I speak their language. I understand their struggles.
- Grit: I've built something real from nothing, against enormous odds.
- Vision: I see a future where talented African youth don't need luck—they just need access.
- Commitment: This isn't a phase or a passion project. This is my life's calling.

I'm not asking for charity. I'm asking for investment.

An investment in me is an investment in:

- 500+ young leaders already transformed
- 10,000+ who will be trained in the next 5 years
- 1,000+ community projects that will change lives
- A movement proving that Africa's future belongs to those who believe in it enough to build it

Let's rise together. Let's impact forever. 🌍 ✨
